Aut0i0n The people behind Aut0i0n decided to turn their creativity into a tutorial and release it for everyone to download. This is a powerful and useful tool to help you automate a wide range of tasks related to Windows in general. Aut0i0n is an easy to use batch file that executes

On-shell scripts that were created by other hackers/hax0rs. The action of the script is triggered by the user's input at any time. So if you want your computer to start up in fullscreen, push the start button, turn on the wifi or if you want to turn off the power of your computer all you have to do is tell autoi0n to do it. The programmer keeps in mind all the security problems people have been dealing with and implements a sophisticated antivirus software to protect your precious files. The author is still working in the final stages of the initial release and he promises to add more scripts/tasks with the goal of helping users achieve a “perfect automation” as he called it. The author has set some goals for himself for the final release. You can read them here: For now you can start downloading and try out the On-shell scripts. There are thousands of tasks you can perform using AutoiOn. The program is not a virus. It is free and legal so no worries about viruses. Have fun!
