I just started using AppleTV+ to get movies on my big plasma. A friend of mine has a LG plasma that has the same firmware on it as my AppleTV+. When he turns it on and selects "saved recordings" with no new shows and just a handful of shows from over 2-3 months ago...I get the same results. Not only that, the same other shows that are on there when I get the same results. All of them had a record date over 2 months ago, as do my shows, and I checked every single other mode with no new shows. The only thing is it wasn't just one show that had it's record date listed as 2 months ago. It was a bunch of them listed under the "saved recording" category. There is nothing on that account that was added for over 2 months either, no new shows. And if it isn't new shows and I don't know what kind of shows, how are they saved? I don't go to "go to another channel" and select them and it says "no channel has saved that show". He, and other friends of mine are doing the same. I have 4 accounts on my AppleTV+ and "watch later" feature all were added, saved, watched, etc within the past 2 months. All have the same problem. A complete list of shows for that account is: 2 months ago, 2 months ago, 2 months ago, 2 months ago, and none over 2 months ago. I'm not using a smart tv. It says it on the back of my TV. Apple TV+ is not a smart tv. It isn't smart tv. Has anyone else noticed, when using the Netflix app on AppleTV, that the movie you were recently watching stays in the "history" list for a little while even after you have deleted it? Is that normal? Hello! I am the owner of a new Apple TV. I am stuck trying to setup my Apple TV with my friend who
