Swiss Indian Swiss Indian is a term used to refer to Indian people who have a Swiss citizenship or who have been born in Switzerland, as well as people with Swiss-Indian origin who retain Swiss citizenship or have been born in Switzerland. The term originated from the European nations' desire to assimilate into the body politic of Switzerland, and the fact that many Swiss nationals sought Indian spouses from among the historically significant diaspora of Hindus living in India at the time. they had no choice but to speak Indian languages (Hindi and Punjabi, most often) in public to avoid being disallowed from applying for Swiss citizenship. However, since the 1990s, the use of German in education has been encouraged amongst the Swiss-Indian community, and Swiss-Indian children have been taught in Swiss German through the Indian Curriculum. This has had its consequences in the Swiss-Indian community, resulting in the loss of the traditionally-fluctuating bilingual nature of this sub-group's status in public discourse, as these children are now exclusively raised in the home language of German.
