Ninety-eight patients with symptomatic benign prostatic hyperplasia were treated by closed guided perineal frozen prostate cryotherapy between June 1989 and June 1991. Each patient underwent systematic evaluation of the consistency of the prostate before cryotherapy using ultrasound transducer and rectal examination. On the same day, all patients were injected transurethrally with 14 mg of chymopapain. Cryotherapy was applied by a Seiki Corporation cryoablation system (CS-6/7, 15-28 W, 9.6 Mpa) in a controlled manner with a freezing time of 4 min. Cryotherapy probes of the CS-6/7 were also applied to 20 normal prostates as controls to evaluate the efficacy of the cryosurgical systems in vivo. According to ultrasound and rectal examination findings, transurethral prostatic cryotherapy using a combination of chymopapain and the CS-6/7 system was successful
