The reason your link did not work is that your web server is not ready to serve the updated files. It has probably been down for a few days. That is why you are getting the old version of file. You can use wget to download the newest version of the file. Do the following: Unblock with your web browser. Copy the downloaded to your home folder and name it Xmanager.exe Open a terminal and cd to your home folder. Type wget -nv This command should now download the newest version of the file. It may take a few hours to download but you will end up with a newer version of the file. If you get a bunch of http error messages, change wget to wget -nv setTranslatedDirection() Transform Static methods
