illness". From that time, and in following incidents, West Yorkshire Police have been on high alert and have begun visiting brothels to take a second look at the premises. In an attempt to halt the fatalities, the Police media unit issued a media alert to the Department for Work and Pensions, asking the agency to support the sex industry by "signing up venues to deal with workers in an occupational setting". The DWP, however, replied saying that "it is not in the remit of the DWP to deal with the sex industry." The Union of Great Britain Sex Workers said: "For the first time in their history, sex workers have been granted the right to form a union of their own. "It is an historic moment in the history of the sex industry and one that has required every one of us to work hard, along with the support of industry leaders, to achieve. "In a short time, the union's collective power will have a positive impact on the lives of thousands of people working in the industry." In the future, sex workers will be able to vote to form a union, which will be responsible for negotiating with other organisations and employers on their behalf. The union was founded by sex workers, with Harriet Wistrich, of the Sex Workers Outreach Project (SWOP), serving as their sole
